

JCS

4th Japanese-German Symposium on Classification (JGSC2012)

Conference Dinner:

Date: March 9, 2012

Time: 19:00 – 21:00

Venue: Ganko Takasegawa Nijoen

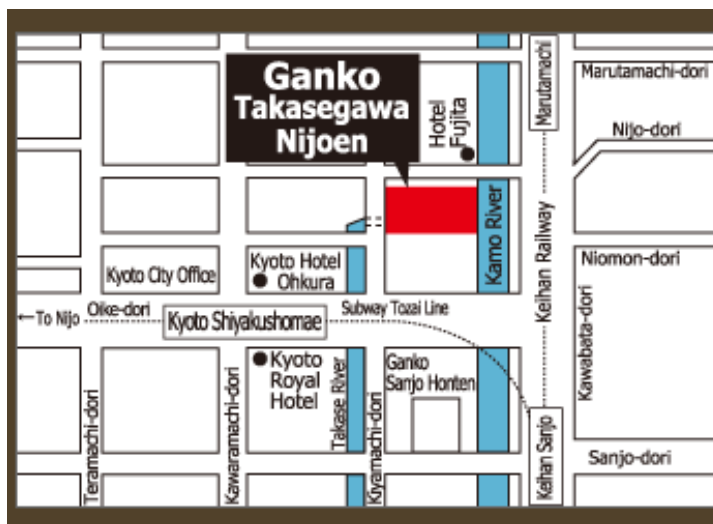

Ganko Takasegawa Nijoen, a mansion that has been used as a vacation home for the powerful and wealthy of the day for nearly 400 years, has an elegant and splendid garden. It now provides guests from the general public with a dining space where they can enjoy the garden together with delightful Japanese cuisine. Ganko offers real Kyoto Kaiseki cuisine at reasonable prices.

The “Geisha Girl Encounter Days” are a regular attraction. Enjoy a leisurely meal, stroll in a formal Japanese garden, then watch maiko dancing, something that can only be seen in Kyoto, the thousand-year capital.

A visit to the Nijoen is truly a precious “three birds with one stone” experience.
